POSITION AVAILABLE

Date to be Posted: ASAP

Position Title: Associate Professor

Institution (Location): University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill
(Chapel Hill, NC)

Start Date (and other relevant dates): Open until filled

Salary: Commensurate with experience.

Candidate's Qualifications (who should apply):

Candidates should have a proven track record in public health nutrition research in one or more of the following areas: diet, physical activity, behavioral or environmental interventions; global/international nutrition; nutrition and health communications; or nutrition/food policy. Research experience in theory-based interventions to improve the nutrition and health of individuals and communities and to reduce health disparities is strongly desired. Evidence of strong research design and methodological skills is essential.

A PhD in nutrition is preferred, although candidates with a PhD in a relevant discipline will be considered. The UNC Gillings School of Global Public Health is actively committed to diversity. We strongly encourage applications from women, minorities, and individuals with disabilities.

Position Description:

The Department of Nutrition at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill invites applications at the Assistant or Associate Professor level for a tenure-track position in the division of intervention and policy. Successful candidates will develop and maintain an independent, externally funded research program, mentor students and teach graduate level courses related to intervention or policy.

How to Apply:
